Subject: The Alabama Appellate Court's new online service

I write to share my excitement about our latest technology achievement. Recently, the Alabama Appellate Courts launched a new online information service that we refer to as ACIS Online. The new service offers attorneys unprecedented access to the cases before our three Appellate Courts.

In addition to providing attorneys with online access to documents such as trial court records, briefs, and docket sheets, the new service offers attorneys realtime access to our decisions and other tracking or monitoring services in cases of interest.

All of the services and benefits available through ACIS Online are too lengthy to mention in this short memorandum. However, we plan to continue offering attorneys complimentary access to the new service during the month of June while we continue BETA testing a number of its features. The Internet address to the new online service is <https://acis.alabama.gov>.

On behalf of the Justices, Judges, and staff of our Appellate Courts, I invite you to take advantage of our complimentary trial offer and give the new service a "test drive." Whether you practice at the appellate level on a regular basis, or your practice focuses in other areas, we believe you will find the information services available through ACIS Online of value. We welcome your comments and your feedback. Thank you in advance for your participation.
