Parker graduated from Auburn University in 2005 with a degree in Business Administration. While receiving his Juris Doctor at Thomas Goode Jones School of Law in 2008, he was the recipient of the Lewis F. Powell Jr. American College of Trial Lawyers Medal of Excellence in Advocacy as a National semi-finalist at the National Trial and Buffalo-Niagara Trial Competitions. Parker studied International Law abroad with Tulane University at the Universiteit van Amsterdam.

Hired as an associate with Beasley, Allen, Crow, Methvin, Portis and Miles, PC in 2008, Parker is now a Principal attorney for the firm. He served as Second-Chair in Hot Fuel Multi-District Litigation to the Plaintiffs Steering Committee participating in strategy meetings concerning the steering of nation-wide multi-district litigation and is responsible for dispositive briefing responses for the states of Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia and Tennessee. During the Deepwater Horizon Oil Spill Litigation, Parker has been counsel to the Governor and Deputy Attorney General in the State's economic and property damages oil spill case against BP. To date he has recovered tens of millions in compensation. Parker is on several committees with the Bar's Young Lawyers and Volunteer Lawyers Program. He is the Montgomery chair for the Alabama Association for Justice, a member of the Montgomery County Association for Justice, Montgomery County Bar Association, American Inns of Court, American Association for Justice, American Bar Association and the Federal Bar Association. He is a Board Member of the Henry Tellis Foundation – a foundation dedicated to the development of inner-city fatherless boys in Montgomery and former chairman for the Father Walters Charity Golf Tournament.
